Finneran called the meeting to order at 10:30 a.m. The consent agenda was unanimously approved by the Committee, and Finneran then turned the meeting over to the PSG team to review the project.
Griffin said the next key permits are for the foundations which are expected in September or October. Rosauer explained that the International Union of Operating Engineers labor dispute/strike was delaying the vault construction at Boren and Olive, and we hoped it would be resolved shortly. He also explained that the PLA contains a provision preventing strikes but this particular utility work does not fall under the PLA.

For the WSDOT land, WSDOT keeps authorizing the necessary construction work, but we are still waiting to receive an updated draft of the lease.

Libby and Griffin explained the updated financial plan that the Finance Committee had reviewed earlier in the day and would be recommending to the Board for approval. Griffin added that the costs were very similar to last month’s estimate which do not include the $14 MM overage in the concrete bid. At the end of the bidding, PSG will recommend if the construction budget should be changed.

On the co-development, Libby mentioned that the numbers had been refined but were still within the level shown on last month’s estimate.

Rosauer reviewed the status of the work with LMN and their work in resolving ambiguities in the drawings, which has been a collaborative effort among the design consultants and the contractor. Lewis reviewed the outreach program and PSG’s increased confidence in reaching the $80 MM goal.

Lewis reminded the Committee of the art program which includes Urban Design Merit Art, Public Benefit Art, and the $4.6 MM of other art. This work is coordinated among the Board Art Committee, the Art Advisors, 4Culture, Margery Aronson, Cathy McClure, and WSCC staff. Griffin reminded the Committee of the need also to satisfy certain steps the Seattle Design Commission.

Rosauer reviewed the costs and estimates from Clark-Lewis for subcontracts to add to its contract. The Committee agreed to recommend three motions to the Board:

1. To authorize the Chairman to sign a change order with the contractor for $138,000,009, adding specific subcontractors.
2. If recommended by PSG, to authorize the Chairman to sign specific change orders for six separate disciplines which have submitted pricing, if the amount is less than the amount provided to the Board for the specific discipline.
3. If recommended by PSG, to authorize the Chairman to sign specific change orders for ten separate disciplines which are expected to submit pricing in the next two weeks, if the amount is less than the amount provided to the Board for the specific discipline.

Being no further business, the meeting was adjourned at 11:15 a.m.
